Castlebrooke Secondary School in Peel Region 2016

In 2012, Lance founded Speakers University, a program model implemented in elementary and high schools where he trains the next generation in public speaking. This program strategy encourages young minorities and diverse communities to aspire to higher learning education, character development, personal growth, civic engagement and effective communication skills.

"The Speakers University is an awesome program concept that will give birth to another generation of leaders. Young leaders that can teach their peers how to stand up for themselves in a respectful manner as opposed to rage."
